Plans for automobile week were completed last night at the meeting of the Indianapolis Auto Trade Association. The date set for the opening was March 28, when the various automobile companies of the city will begin their individual displays at their salesrooms. These individual displays will be continued during the entire week, but will form the feature attraction of the first two days of automobile week.

On Wednesday, March 30, a floral parade will be held. Each of the local companies will furnish decorated cars, and, according to the present plans, the affair will be one of the most gorgeous ever held in this city.

Every style of car sold in Indianapolis will be entered in the floral parade and both men and women drivers of the city will be invited to enter.

On Thursday, Speedway.

One of the biggest baseball trades of the winter was consummated yesterday by Manager Fred Clarke and Manager Bresnahan of the Cincinnati Reds and Manager Allen Storke of the St. Louis Cardinals. It involves the acquisition of Fred Beebe and Utility Pitcher Frank Corridore by the Reds and the release of Huggins and Outfielder Allen Storke to the Cardinals.

The deal was made as a result of continued negotiations between the two managers over the past few months. Bresnahan wanted second base and Oakes, who is regarded as one of the best in the business, will play outfield.

Before joining the Cardinals, a Cub and was passed to the Cardinals. He pitched that team, though his contract with that city and he wanted to go East. Allen Storke is a former player and did beautifully last year on the Cardinals, but he traded to the Cardinals along with "Jap" Barber and "Bobby" Byrne. Last season Cincinnati fans are tickled over the trade.

The signed contract of the third baseman of the St. Louis Pirates, has been seen by the Cardinals. Byrne stated that he is tired from the broken contract in the final game with Detroit in the championship.

The feature event of the show will be the attractions booked for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Thursday. On that day all of the events, which in former years were held on Capitol avenue, will be held at the Speedway and the obstruction races and speed events promise to furnish a great fund of amusement.

Following the events at the Speedway will come a commercial parade of undecorated cars on Friday. Many new models of cars which have not yet been seen on the streets of the city will be obtained for the commercial parade and each company will make an effort to secure the most models in the parade. The week of display will come to a close on Saturday, April 2, with a luncheon.

There are at present fifty-nine local tradesmen interested in the Indianapolis Auto Trade Association, and it has been due to their efforts that the Indianapolis show was made possible. The funds to maintain the show will be raised by individual subscription.
