cross-country run. We thought that to exercise our arms would be unwise. But the run did us all good. Five miles of the Hoosier soil was covered. Every man finished in good form. Some who were shy on wind when they hit here have overcome that embarrassment and all are now in tiptop shape.

When the sun had warmed things up some by the afternoon we took a turn at catching flies. The ground was too wet for usual fielding work, so we resorted to the old garden practice and caught flies and line drives to our hearts' content.

The rest did our arms a world of good, for we went at it too strong the first few days and as a result we paid dearly. Several of the men are now down to weight and one of them is lighter than he was last August. There are no loafers in this camp. The men appreciate being sent here, and are availing themselves of every opportunity to get in condition. We will strike town like a nest of monkeys soon.

EFFORTS TO PLACE FAST TEAMS ON THE DIAMONDS PROMISE TO BEAR FRUIT THAT ROOTERS WILL RELISH.

Indications are that the 1909 season for the Indianapolis semi-professional ball players will be good. Four teams stand out with bright prospects. Practice is being held every Sunday, but as yet a good estimate of the situation can not be formed, as the inclement weather has handicapped the efforts.

Well-posted fans say they believe that the big league will catch these teams
