INDOOR SPORTS

"POP" GEERS WINS AGAIN WITH SINGLE G

Wins Two of Three Fastest Heats of Year in Free for All; Beats Russell Boy

KALAMAZOO—Single G, and Russell Boy split the three fastest heats of the year Thursday afternoon when the former won the sensational free for all race in the Grand circuit races here on Thursday.

The winner was driven by "Pop" Geers, and took the first heat in 2:01 1/2. Russell Boy rushed to the front and captured the second heat in 2:00 1/2 and then Single G took the third and final heat in 2:01. Miss Harris M. was expected to repeat her victory at Cleveland but the best she could do was to finish second in the second and third heats.

The 2:08 trot, purse $3,000, brought out a field of nine. Wilkes Brewer won in three heats.

The 2:09 pace furnished three fast finishes. Oro Fino won the first heat in a hot brush with Lee Grand and Game of Chance. Verlie Paterson rushed to the front in the second heat and was a contender all the way. Oro Fino just nosing him out of the wire. While rounding the first turn, Game of Chance broke and pulled up quite lame. Cox jogged him home and he was distanced. Lee Grand won the final heat, out-brushing Oro Fino and Verlie Paterson in the stretch.

The 2:14 pace with nine starters was another battle from wire to wire. Murphy however, landed "the Problem" in front.

An incident of particular interest to horsemen was the sale of a three year old chestnut Peter. Tommy Murphy disposed of him to C. W. Leonard, of Boston, for $25,000. Chestnut is by Peter, the Great.

Red Cross day at Aqueduct race track recently netted $5,070 for the good cause. President James Shevlin of the club announced that everyone, including jockeys and trainers were forced to pay admission that day. This shows clearly what can be done by athletic committees and promoters to help war funds. The more Red Cross Days and special days for other accredited war organizations these men can stage the more they will help win the war.

Ty Cobb To Succeed Jennings As Tiger Manager? New Yarn

The writer ran across an item in an exchange paper the other evening which announced that this would be Hughie Jennings' last year as manager of the Tigers. The item added—you've guessed it already—that Ty Cobb would succeed him as pilot of the Junglers.

The yarn went on to state that Hughie's repeated failures to bring a pennant winner to Tigerland were responsible, that the fans were off him for life and that the club had decided to let him out. Maybe so.

And maybe the Georgia phantom will succeed him as boss. But knowing Tyrus Raymond as we do, we'd like to lay a little bet that he has brains enough to duck the job.

It would be foolishness for Cobb to end his days in baseball as a manager. Ty is baseball's Superman. He will be as long as he plays, even after he slips as a batter, fielder and base runner. Fans always will see him as he is now at his best.

If Tyrus goes from actual playing into retirement he will carry only glory and honor with him. Fans all give him the glad hand every time they see him.

But Tyrus will step into a new game if he decides to become a big league manager. The fans will forget his wonderful playing ability.

We can see now what would happen. The first time Tyrus allowed one of his hurlers to stay in the box a little longer than the fans thought was proper they would get right home, dig down in their tool boxes and get out all the hammers they owned.

And, boys, how those hammers would ring. We hate to think of it. Not that we want to state here and now that Tyrus would not be a successful manager. But we doubt if any human being could accomplish what the major league fans would expect of Ty.

Nothing but a pennant winner the first season would keep their faith in him. The team would have to be in first division every minute.

We know the fan. He doesn't mean to be unfair—but he wants a winner. Tyrus has shown himself to be one of the wisest men in baseball as a player. It's a good bet that Cobb would pass the buck to someone else if he were asked to turn manager. We hope he would.

FIVE GREATEST AUTO DRIVERS TO COMPETE

Chevrolet, Resta, Duray, De Palma, Mulford Enter $25,000 Classic at Chicago

CHICAGO—The five greatest auto racing drivers in the world have now entered for the International Sweepstakes at the Chicago Speedway a week from next Sunday and the first running of the $25,000 classic promises to be the most important contest staged anywhere this season. Those who will compete are:

Louis Chevrolet, winner of the recent Chicago Derby and Speedway champion for 1918.

Arthur Duray, hero of Verdun and the Marine, who holds the world's speed record of 147 miles an hour.

Ralph Mulford, world's twenty-four hour champion and winner of second place in the Chicago Derby.

Dario Resta, Speedway champion of 1915-16, and considered the best of all drivers.

Ralph De Palma, holder of a dozen world's records for speed and winner of the Sheepstead Bay and Cincinnati 100 mile handicap races this season.

When the management announced the inauguration of the new speedway classic it was stipulated that every car entered must have a known speed of not less than 105 miles an hour and that every driver must pay an entry fee of $2,000, the management guaranteeing a purse of $25,000. Only the five above named drivers were invited to compete.

U. W. TENNIS DOUBLES COMPETE FOR HONORS

Six pairs entered the tennis doubles championship tournament which began this week at the university. E. R. Benson and Professor Fite won in the first round from B. E. Schmitt and H. S. Hill. "Bob" Sutton and King Woodward also won from M. A. Smith and R. Moore. Two other matches were by.

Those who are competing are H. S. Miller and J. J. Swenson; B. E. Schmitt and H. S. Hill; E. R. Benson and Professor Fite; M. A. Smith and R. Moore; R. D. Sutton and King Woodward; A. L. Newton and L. M. McNaughton.

RANSOM AND DISMOND CITED FOR BRAVERY

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Sammy Ransom, one of the greatest negro football players in history, has achieved the ambition of his life, according to letters from the battle front received by friends here.

Sam—he is Lieut. Ransom now—has already proved his worth as an officer. He and Binga Dismond, former crack sprinter at the University of Chicago, have been cited for bravery.

Ransom's never-say-die spirit, typical of his gridiron playing for Hyde Park high school, Chicago, won him a commission in the army. Until a year ago, he was the door-keeper at a St. Paul club. When war came, he tried to qualify for the first officers' training camp, at Fort Snelling, but failed.

That setback did not discourage Ransom and he enlisted in the army as a private. His keen mentality, resourcefulness and ability to lead men soon advanced him to a non-commissioned officer and later he won his bars.

Ransom and Dismond participated in a raid on German trenches and their conduct under fire was the subject of special mention.

CRAWFORD'S REVENGE FOR PUNK UMPIRING

Sam Crawford was always of an easy going disposition and inclined to take things as he got them from the umpires and few were his disputes during his long career in the majors. However, Sam occasionally would figure it out in his own way that he had been given the worst of it on a decision and then he would carefully, deliberately plot to get even.

The terrible vengeance he would then wreak on the offending umpire is illustrated by a story that Sam tells himself with much gusto and many a chuckle.

"I had an argument with Jack Egan," said Sam, "but I got good and even with him you bet. He called 'em bad on me and finally I said to him: 'Jack, you remind me of a play I saw the other night.' 'I didn't say any more just then and I could see he was puzzled. He got so curious he had to ask me what I meant. 'What was the name of that play, Sam?' he finally asked me.

"They called it 'The Thief,' I said. And you bet, after that he didn't speak to me for a week, he was that mad. I sure rubbed that one in on him. Maybe it was a mean thing to say, but I just couldn't help it. He didn't put me out of the game though."

And Sam let it be known that he hadn't been penalized in a manner that indicated he still wonders why he wasn't suspended for life.

KIWANIS HEAD WILL ANSWER ROTARY DEFY

"Mickey" Cleary States That Challenge Will Be Answered; Practice Begins

Insurance Commissioner M. J. Cleary has acknowledged the receipt of the baseball challenge which was hurled at him in his official capacity as president of the Kiwanis club by President R. J. Neumann of the Rotary club.

Mr. Cleary intends to answer the challenge, but has been too busy to do so. The challenge asks for a game of ball between the two clubs to be played on Monona avenue between public, preferably near University. It is planned to take up a collection for some war charity at the game. Governor Philipp will be asked to umpire.

John St. John reports that he has sent to Louisville for a special bunch of bats and that he is going to make the Rotarian first start practicing every night for two weeks. The letter has some amusing angles:

To the Honorable M. J. Cleary, President Kiwanis club, State Capitol, Madison, Wisconsin.

Dear Mickey: The Rotary club of Madison, believing that in its membership the power to humble the ability of some chosen members of Kiwanis, does hereby challenge your organization to a game of baseball.

In order that the citizens of Madison have an opportunity of witnessing your defeat it is suggested that the game be played on Monona avenue, in the city of Madison, at the time of play be such that the greatest number of citizens may witness the spectacle and that the game be played for fun, money, prizes or War Savings stamps.

It is further suggested that an umpire be selected by agreement and that Chief Shaughnessy be advised to detail his force of uniformed men, aided and abetted by the home guards, to protect the body and person of such official umpire.

We, therefore, trust that it is possible for a definite decision to emanate from the office of the insurance commissioner a reply to be formulated whereby the people of a nation may know whether Kiwanis beats Rotary's challenge.

Trusting that you are well and enjoying your work, we are, Respectfully yours, R. J. Neumann, President.

SPORT EVENTS OF THE DAY

Matt Brock, lightweight, knocked out Harry Brammer in the first round of a 15 round bout at Denver, the latter being unconscious five minutes.

Ray Chevrolet won the 112 1/2 mile independent auto derby at Uniontown, Pa., with an average of 95 miles an hour. Barney Oldfield won the international world championship over Arthur Duray in a five lap race, averaging 101 miles an hour.

Allan Russell, New York American pitcher, went to the Sparrows Point team of the Steel league; Fred Anderson, New York National pitcher, left to report for military service, Alfred Devormer, catcher of the Pacific Coast league, went to the Chicago Americans, and William Dell, pitcher of the same club, went to the Cincinnati Nationals.

Rankin Johnson, pitcher, John Beall, outfielder, and Oscar Tuero, pitcher, left the St. Louis Nationals, the first to work in a munitions plant, the second to join his family and the third to join the Binghamton, N. Y. team.

A Red Cross golf match on George Ade's links resulted in a tie between Jack Hutchinson and Bob MacDonald and Chick Evans and Kenneth Edwards for 22 holes, at Brock, Ind., Evans making low gross with 65 for 18 holes.

The national baseball commission began preparation of deposition for its major league players affected by the work or fight order to be forwarded to Provost Marshal General Crowder.

Rubianna, of the Cleveland Yacht Club, won the class B event; Ida May, of the West Detroit Boat club, the class for cruisers between 40 and 60 feet; Lenora II, of the Cleveland Yacht club, the class for cruisers over 60 feet, and Wood Hydraulic, Gar Wood's boat, of the Detroit Yacht club, the event for express cruisers, at the Interlake Yacht association regatta at Put-in-Bay.

Wilbur Cooper, the Pirates great little southpaw, is pitching in hard luck this year. He has lost a number of tough games that he deserved to win.

Ty Cobb has been hitting 'em on the nose this season, amassing plenty of doubles and triples, but up to the opening of July, at least he hadn't connected for a home run.

Who should bob up as a hurler in the international league but old Doc Scanlon, who has been out of the game for years. Who's next?
