

Public To Have Eye On Each Big League Meeting

By Jack Velock.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—When the National and American leagues hold their annual meetings here and in Chicago on December 12 the baseball public, and particularly that part of it which represents minor leagues, will have an eye on each meeting and an ear close to the ground for first-hand reports of the attitude of the big fellows toward suggestions which will be offered by the National association.

For the first time in its history the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, which includes all the recognized minor leagues, stood upon its underpinning this year and became bold enough to make a number of recommendations for the betterment of baseball in its own immediate circle.

The minors want it understood that they are not making demands. They have merely adopted resolutions to be placed before the big leaguers at their winter sessions, and they are living in the hope that favorable results will follow.

The biggest thing asked for by the National association as a whole is the sanction of a new baseball court of appeals by the majors. Minor leaguers do not want to erase the present national commission, but they believe that they should have some voice in the controversies between themselves and the majors.

For this reason they will ask that a new board of appeals be formed, consisting of two major league representatives, two minor league members and a neutral member, the body as a whole to decide all cases in dispute between minor and major league club owners.

Men high up in the national game have said many times that the minor leaguers could gain concessions from the majors if they would but ask for them. And the plan for minor league representation on a new board of appeals seems likely to be given support by the majors, since it does away with the much-talked-of idea of disrupting the time-honored national commission.

Another appeal to be placed before the major leaguers at their December meetings has to do with the lifting of the draft from the three Class AA leagues. This recommendation, backed up by the national association as a whole, will extend the privileges of the Pacific Coast league, the American association and the International league. If it is sanctioned by the two big leagues these three big minors will enjoy freedom that they have been looking forward to for years.

What Class AA club owners want is the right to build up strong teams and retain their players as long as they see fit. They will not ask equal drafting privileges with the majors, and they do not expect to be given a rating on the same level. They hope, by having the major league draft lifted from them, to create a better market for their stars, and to enjoy the right of selling players to whom they pleased, instead of being forced to sell their best talent each fall or lose it in the draft at a much smaller price than they could get otherwise.

The sentiment of minor leaguers as a whole in supporting their three big brothers in this move has been prompted by the belief that in lifting the draft a better market will be created for ball players of all classes, and this with no great hardship of the majors.

Two or three years ago Class A and B leagues would have flatly refused to support such a move, but the task of boosting Old King Swat to his former high plane of prosperity is a big one, and the minors have come to the conclusion that they can afford to grant concessions to each other in order to gain their ends.

Church League Fives Ready For Opening Games

(By "BUCK.")
The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium floor will be the scene of the opening games of the Church League Basketball season this evening, when the six teams entered for the race will take the floor in an effort to pull down the first game, and thereafter keep their slate clear as did the Market street team two seasons ago.

For the curtain raiser the German Reformed and South Side Church of Christ will furnish the excitement. The management of the Reformed five is building up a strong club this season and will endeavor to keep up in the running throughout the season. As to the South Side five they will have their usual clever tossers.

The second game of the evening will be between Grace M. E. and the First Christians. This contest is expected to be the most interesting of the program. In pre-season games the Grace quintet have showed considerable speed and are picked as the winners of the season. Many fans will be disappointed if the M. E. boys do not come out on top at the close.

Market street will probably be the only team that Grace cagers will have to be on the lookout for, for if they keep up the pace they have set in previous years they will be hard to catch. The Market street squad meets the Central aggregation. This is Central's first year in the league and they might spring a surprise.

As a whole the teams in the circuit are well balanced, and can look forth for some real clashes. Each team is scheduled to play ten games during the season, with two cups being awarded, one for the first placers and the other for the seconds. Both cups are awarded by the physical department of the Y. M. C. A.

Bowling

The Gazette bowling five seems to be getting very popular on the alleys and are taking on all comers and not only that but are beating them. Last night they stalked up against the A. C. C. five and came out on the long end of a 1769-2692 score. Long did the heavy work for the newspaper men.

QUADRUPLETS, RECORD IN STATE CONTEST

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 2.—Tennessee and Mississippi are rivals for the biggest baby crop. Recently the wife of Clarence T. Jones, a prominent architect of Chattanooga, Tenn., became the mother of triplets, three girls. A day or two later the wife of J. T. Cleveland, a farmer living near Love, Miss., became the mother of four children, two boys and two girls.

TALKS ON THRIFT

OUR NATIONAL BILL FOR THE NEEDLESS.
So eminent an authority as Dr. Eliot of Harvard has compiled the following table as showing the amount spent annually by the American people for "things that are not bread."

Intoxicating liquors	$2,200,000,000
Tobacco	1,200,000,000
Jewelry and plate	800,000,000
Automobiles	500,000,000
Confectionery	200,000,000
Soft drinks	120,000,000
Tea and coffee	100,000,000
Millinery	90,000,000
Patent medicines	80,000,000
Chewing gum	13,000,000
Total	$5,203,000,000

If a national board of efficiency experts were called upon to cut down these expenditures and cut out the needless, great differences of opinion would arise. The man who is addicted to liquor would claim liquor a necessity. The tobacco user would claim the same for the weed. The lumberer of soda and soft drinks would claim the same for his indulgences and the patent medicine man would tell you that you will surely die if you do not take Dr. Blanks nerve tonic. The woman with a sweet tooth would say she could not do without her box of candy, and the habitual chewer of gum would tell you that chewing gum was good for the digestion and place that as a necessity of life; while the tea and coffee fiend would surely find life not worth the living if the morning and evening draught were missing from the menu. But be this as it may, we must conclude that an enormous amount of money is spent for frivolities that give us no lasting pleasure, and do no permanent good.

We can never hope to get away from habit, for we are all creatures that do things because we have always done them, and even admitting that frivolity habits give employment to a large number of people, the harm done is often greater than the resultant good.

As a rule we do not spend our money in large amounts, but in small sums. A certain lawyer who had been unable to save any money and at 45 found himself a thriftless man, endeavored to analyze the reason for his inability to get ahead. For a month he kept track of his expenditures and found that his money got away from him in dribbles—a nickel here and there, dimes and quarters handed out on every side until the sum total was amazing. It is surprising how much our frivolity bill is when we take to reckon it up. And if you are unable to save money it may be because of a wasteful habit. In fact many people would not dare to keep an expense account, lest the figures

Amalgamation To Be Discussed

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Proposed amalgamation of the American Association and the International league will be discussed at the annual meeting of the former at Indianapolis, December 8. Formal call for the meeting was issued today from the offices of President Tom Chivington.

The plan is to take four clubs from each circuit and form a league which by courtesy would be known as a major. It is improbable that the plan will receive approval.

President Chivington's fate also will be decided at this meeting. His contract expired this fall and there is a move to oust him.

Hearing Power of Cat

The acuteness of the average cat's sense of hearing is proverbial, but it is a proverb that needs qualifying. For example, many white rats are absolutely deaf, and though the idea may appear absurd at first sight, it is believed by some students that the color of a cat is associated with its sense of hearing. Among several imported Persians, or long-haired cats, from abroad, not one white one in the number has been able to hear the slightest sound. Of course, there are white cats that could hear, but they have been the exception, and that applies as much to the short-haired pets of the freeds as to the aristocratic long hair of the shows. Moreover, the white cats duldest of hearing are those with blue eyes.

Jingles From Sportland

By Jack Velock.

The Punch in the Game.
A fighter nicked a sport off for a pass, and scurried out to see a foot ball game.

He watched the battle on the lime-lined grass, as slivers shook his weather-beaten frame. He saw the flying fist that laid him flat—

Said he: "Both fame and fortune would be mine "If only I could pull a punch like that."

Proving there is no good reason why Willard or Sharkey wouldn't make good foot ball coaches.

Boxing and foot ball go by different names—they are so similar.

We hear on good authority that Elmer Oliphant will make the 1917 All-American if he attends Yale.

A base ball scribe tells us that poor pitching killed off the Giants. He might have added that it also killed off the Cards, Cubs and Reds.

By the way, the eastern foot ball title is decided at last. It lies between Pitt, Brown and the Navy.

Willard Peach, Michigan end, was laid up with a punch received on the head in the Penn game. Had he been a second baseman or an outfielder he wouldn't have minded a trifle like that.

News From Harvard.
The team returned almost intact. Though Casey had a busted nose and someone else a clean-torn back—they fell and did it, I suppose.

Dario Resta may retire from the racing game. He may re-tire in time for the next race.

In order to keep Chicago from falling hardest, New York will stage another six-day bike race soon.

Ice tennis may be played here this winter.

Army-Navy Game is Fixed for Nov 24 Next Year At N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The Army-Navy football game will be held at the Polo grounds next season on Saturday, November 24, according to present plans. Last year when the game was the subject of much controversy between Army and Navy officials, it was suggested that hereafter the service teams play in New York and Philadelphia in alternate years. According to this arrangement the navy would next season choose Franklin field.

It is understood, however, that the navy is now in favor of playing here next year on account of the increased seating capacity and excellent arrangements at the Polo Grounds. It is likely the two service elevens will decide to play here every year.

Next year's game will conflict with the Harvard-Yale game at Boston, but in the following year, 1918, the game will be played on November 30 the Saturday following Thanksgiving day. The Army-Navy date is the Saturday in November closest to Thanksgiving day each year.

Bosses To Map Out 1917 Schedule

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Representatives of the Western Conference will meet here today to map out the 1917 schedules. A lively tilt is expected in the discussion of 1917 football dates. There is considerable interest in the bids for dates which will be made by the "small fry" teams and the "big guns." Whether the so-called big schools will ask games with the smaller ones is a matter of speculation since Ohio State, a small institution, hammered its way through to the championship. Whether small eastern elevens will be on the schedule for early season games also was to be discussed.

Jolly-Chenoweth Five Goes Down to Defeat at Gomer

The Jolly-Chenoweth basket ball five, played their initial game last night at Gomer and went down to defeat by three out of 23-14. In which the local lads lacked team work, in the local country boys surpassed them.

Lerch New Captain Of 1917 Squad

Members and their Parents Enjoy Social Held Last Eve.

Edison Lerch, fullback on the Lima high school foot ball squad was last night elected captain of the warriors for 1917. The meeting was held at Laux dancing hall, where the parents as well as the members of the team, passed a very enjoyable evening.

Lerch's playing was remarkably good the past season, and in picking him, his teammates have made no mistake. Both of the high school's touchdowns in the Thanksgiving day game were made by Lerch.

Coach Hill was presented with a gold watch chain by the members. Although the team went through an unsuccessful season Hill put considerable time in trying to get his boys into shape. Earl Keating, who held the captain position, will graduate this spring.

Coach Hill will call a meeting of the athletic association to discuss who will be awarded "L's."

CUBS GET NEW INFILDER

Scott High, Toledo, who refused Lima warriors a game this season, gained the right to play Haverhill (Mass.) Hill for the high school championship of the United States, when they defeated Waite High by an overwhelming score of 57-0. By the looks of things the local squad ought to be glad that they didn't come in contact with the upstarters.

Scott is scheduled to leave Toledo Friday night, December 8, for Haverhill, where the championship game will be played, Saturday, December 9.
