

We did not know its completion would be interrupted by a world cataclysm. We went back to Indianapolis—to wait the sweetening of the land.