AUTOISTS TAKE REST

TOURISTS SORE AND WEARY

Gliddenites Spend Idle Day at Bedford Springs Trying to Recuperate.

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., July 21.—It was literally a day of rest for the Glidden automobile tourists today and little or no work was done and very little play, as the motorists were too tired and sore after their 100 miles drive over the mountains to want to do much besides sleep and bathe their aching limbs.

Mrs. Orral A. Parker, the pretty bride of the pneumatic tire man, cruising along in his Royal tourist car at a safe and sane pace, having plenty of time on her hands and being of a fanciful turn of mind, counted the bumps yesterday and said there were 1,861 in the road from Pittsburg.

Every one came over the road thought there were eighteen thousand and think that Mrs. Parker is entirely too conservative in her estimate.

Of the twenty women who started on the trip only six remain with the tour. They include Mrs. Parker, Mrs. John Newton Cuneo, who is driving her own car; Mrs. R. B. Johnson of New York, Mrs. Phillip S. Flynn and Mrs. George H. Albertson of Pittsburg and Mrs. Frank J. Fanning.

Out of the sixty-three contesting cars, including forty-six in the Glidden trophy, thirteen in the Hower prize, and four for the hunting cars, only forty are parked here today. The rest have fallen by the wayside, having failed to survive the 1,180 miles of rough riding they have encountered. In addition to the above there are also about a dozen noncontesting cars.

Wally Owen was loudly cheered today when he arrived with his Penn runabout, having repaired his broken steering gear after twenty hours hard work in the mountains. Another car, which is doing good work, thanks to the skill and resourcefulness of its driver, is the Deere car, driven by Mr. A. A. House.

This car broke its steering knuckle some days ago near Port Washington, O., and fell in here, after being held out with only a wrench, a pair of spring clippers and a brake lever for material.

House and Tom Fitch, who, as usual, is the good Samaritan of the tour, rigged up a temporary steering apparatus on the car and it is running nearly as well as ever.

Chairman Hower, in discussing the tour today, admitted that the A. A. A. had made a mistake in not classifying the cars by price and giving the smaller cars a slower schedule to run on. He also added that observers should have been carried.

This is precisely what many have advocated for over three years and it is safe to say there would have been far less trouble this year if this plan had been followed. While there are some who think the route and schedule are too hard it is in some respects better than last year and a far better test of the cars.

Except in Bedford Springs, where they were greeted by ill-bred sneers from some of the Smoky City's smart set, they have been warmly greeted every place they have passed through.
