ROADS CAUSE SUFFERING

Worse Route of Trip Is Traveled
Over Miserable Highways
to Short Rest.

DENVER, Col., July 24.—(Special)—Until today the 154.4 miles of rock and gumbo roads between Madison and La Crosse, Wis., were called the worst which the Glidden tourists had ever traveled. However, the 206 miles negotiated today over unblazed prairie trails, through running streams and over the foothills of the Rockies to this city were the worst yet encountered of any American automobile tour.

Despite these terrible conditions, only one car was penalized, although dozens of cars were pushed and pulled out of sand, mud and water. For miles no living thing was seen, and not even a shed had been erected on the sunburned prairie.

The car penalized was Thomas No. 11. This was for repairing a broken gasoline feed pipe. After leaving Julesburg the cars encountered fair roads for thirty miles.

When a twisting trail over rotten bridges was encountered all cars fell behind schedule. Next came good going for twenty miles when 100 miles of prairie was encountered. Across this vast ex-
