

AEROPLANE RACES TO CONTINUE THREE DAYS

OCTOBER 14, 15 AND 16 THE PROBABLE DATES.

GOLDEN FLYER MAY COME

E. A. Moross, director of contests at the Indianapolis motor speedway, is awaiting final word from Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator now in Paris, before announcing definitely the dates upon which the aeroplane races at the speedway will be held this fall. The probable selection, however, will be October 14, 15 and 16. These dates are favored because they will fall at a time when they will not conflict with similar events in other cities.

While assurance has been given that Curtiss will appear at the Indianapolis meet with his aeroplane and one or two others of foreign make, director Moross has wired the aviator a counter proposition which includes a clause that he not appear in any state west of New York before the time set for meeting here. A reply is now awaited.

Golden Flyer May Come.

Inquiries were made today regarding the Indianapolis meeting by the Aeronautical Society, of Morris Park, N. Y. This is the society that controls the machine known as the Golden Flyer. The Golden Flyer is the original Curtiss machine and the one with which the noted aviator first achieved fame.

The three-day program will be divided between long distance flights, endurance flights and speed races around the track. In the endurance contests the contestants will see which can hover over the grounds within a certain space for the longest period of time. The events will be arranged so that spectators may obtain a good view from the grand stands.
