

TO FIGHT SPEEDWAY BAR

AGAINST PROPOSED SALOON

MANY PERSONS LIVING NEAR NEW MOTOR COURSE WILL OPPOSE GRANTING OF LIQUOR LICENSE TO P. T. ANDREWS.

A large number of those residing in the neighborhood of the new Motor Speedway expect to go to the office of the county commissioners Wednesday morning to attend the hearing of the remonstrance against the granting of a saloon license to P. T. Andrews to sell liquor on the grounds of the Speedway.

The commissioners recently turned down a petition for a license for a saloon adjoining the Speedway grounds and the people of the locality believe there is still greater reason why no license should be granted for the operation of a bar within the grounds. They say that there will be danger enough to them and their children if all the drivers who go to the Speedway in automobiles remain sober, but that life out there would be far more hazardous if the drivers who were inclined to imbibe too freely are able to "refresh" themselves on the grounds.

There is now no saloon in the neighborhood and the residents, most of whom are temperance people, say they want none. There are 200 names on the remonstrance against the saloon. They expect to make a hard fight Wednesday, though most of them have felt confident that the commissioners would turn the license down. It having been the policy of the present commissioners to head remonstrances when it appeared there was good reason for doing so.

would have to stretch the law mightily to grant the application for a license. The law provides that a saloon must be upon a public highway, they say, and they contend that a saloon within the Speedway grounds would not comply with such a provision.

The applicant and those he represents have contended that the license was for use only during racing meets, and that the sale of intoxicants would be conducted only at such times, but this has not appeared to appease the people of the community. Their opposition has continued as strenuous as before the explanation was made, and a large number of them will appear Wednesday.

UNUSUAL PROVISION IN WILL OF PARKER WILLIS

Little Daughter to Receive $5,000 if She Lives With Grandmother, Otherwise but $100.

Parker Willis, who was shot and killed at Little Rock, Ark., last week as the result of his legal fight for the custody of his 7-year-old daughter, arranged his estate before his death so that unless his desire to have his daughter live apart from her mother were fulfilled she would not get any of his estate. The Willis will was filed for probate yesterday, and it provides that in the event the mother retains the custody of the girl the latter will receive $100, whereas if she is given over to his mother or his sister she will receive $5,000.

A clause in the will recites that the testator has had a troublesome time in his desire to have the custody of the child, and in the same clause he directs his executors to pay her $5,000 provided she makes her home with his mother until she becomes of age, but if she does not she is to receive but $100.

The entire estate is estimated to be worth about $100,000, practically all of which is given to the deceased's mother, Mrs. Frances Ellen Willis. Willis was the proprietor of the Court House grocery, and his business is now conducted with his share in the Parker Willis Company, which was organized for the purpose of carrying on the business of the grocery store, and the business is now conducted with his
