SCHREIBER SOLD TO WESTERN LEAGUE

Pitcher Bought by Denver Is First Indianapolis Player to Get New Berth.

CALLAHAN SAID TO BE STAR

Young Outfielder Obtained From Springfield Had Great Record in Minor League.

BY H. G. COPELAND.

Already the pruning knife has been brought into commission by the Indianapolis Baseball Club, and Manager Carr has begun to dispose of his surplus talent. "Barney" Schreiber is the first of the live ones to go. Yesterday Schreiber was sold to the Denver Club in the Western League. Manager Carr cooked up a deal with Jack Hendricks, the Denver Club's manager, at the American Association meeting in Chicago, and yesterday things came to a head.

Hendricks will get a dandy little southpaw—not so very little at that, as Schreiber is about six feet tall—for in the few weeks he worked with the Indianapolis team last year he showed almost everything but control. He was released to the Terre Haute Central League Club early in the season, and was drafted last year by the Detroit Club.

With Murch and Spencer, Schreiber was sold to the Indianapolis Club, and, since Carr will have three other left-handers to try out on his staff in the spring, he accepted Hendricks's offer for Schreiber. Schreiber looked to be a likely candidate to take "Rube" Marquard's place on the Indianapolis team last year, but he had trouble in getting the ball over the pan, and was sent to the Central League. He has about everything a pitcher needs, and he ought to make good in the Western League. Schreiber's home is at Waverly, O., where he is bandmaster of the city band during the winter months.

Carr will have his team pretty well lined up when the season opens and he has reached the point where he is not worrying about the men who ought to make good. He has sufficient material for the infield and the outfield and he is willing to let the matter resolve itself into a proposition of the survival of the fittest.

Carr will leave tonight for Columbus, O., to attend a meeting of the Ohio State League. He has mailed his contracts and has arranged his schedule for the exhibition season, as announced several weeks ago.

The Philadelphia Americans will open the season at Washington Park on April 11, and play four games; the Chicago Americans will follow for three games, and after the Browns play an exhibition game at Danville, Ill., on April 8, the Detroit Tigers will come for three games. The Buffalo Eastern League team will close the exhibition season on April 13, and on the following day the American Association season will open.

President Watkins, who is a member of the schedule committee, is working on a schedule for next year and it is probable that Indianapolis will open the season at Columbus this year, returning to Washington Park after a series of four games to play a four-game series with each of the other three eastern clubs.

The schedule committee will meet at Chicago in February and in the meantime it is the personnel of the team that interests the fans. It's a cinch that the Indianapolis Club will play half of its games at home, but it's the question of how many games the team will win that's agitating the minds of the fans even in this cold January weather.

With the array of talent Carr already has in hand it's a foregone conclusion that there will be some changes in the infield. The shortstop position, of course, is open, and the third base position is a point open for competition. Counting Lemon in as a strong infield possibility and figuring Jimmy Burke out of the contests, Carr has nine infielders—Carr, Williams, Coffey, Lewis, Murch, Hopke, Mowe and Wagner, and you can frame up several combinations with that number, leaving Mowe and Wagner out of the picture.

But it is in the outfield that the dope may be upset. With the signing of Frank Schauny Carr got a strong quartet of fast men, but if the form sheet tells anything, another factor must be considered. Few of the fans have paid any attention to a youth named James Callahan, who was drafted from the Springfield Three I League Club.

Callahan on past performances looks to be the goods. He lives at Carnegie, Pa., the home of Hans Wagner and some more celebrated baseball stars, and Pittsburg, Pa., the old American Association and National League pitcher, says Callahan is coming. At least some Pittsburg outfielder put of his job. Of course, you have to make the necessary allowance for that statement because every player, every fan-in-the-wool fan, and even every sporting writer get so enthusiastic that they produce world-beaters every once in a while.

But the figures show that Callahan ranked among the best players in the Ohio and Pennsylvania League during the season of 1907, when he played with the Warren (O.) Club. With the Springfield (Ill.) Club in the Three I League in 1908 his record was even better. He was a batting average of .278 in the Ohio and Pennsylvania League, but his fielding was nearly perfect. He made only one error in 127 games which he played with the Akron Club in 1908. Last year with Springfield Club he played center field and in 139 games he made only four errors, his fielding average being .994 per cent, while his batting average was .281. Callahan is not only a fine fielder and batter, but a splendid base-runner. He is now at his home in Carnegie, Pa. He is unmarried.

John J. Coffey, the Boston shortstop bought by Indianapolis, is another youngster, although he will come to Indianapolis as an ex-major leaguer.

Coffey jumped into the big league right from the college baseball field. Coffey was born in Westchester, N. Y., in 1887, and after playing on the Morris Heights High School team entered Fordham College, where he played baseball and football for four years. He was a star player on the college diamond. In the summer of 1908 he played with the Chanlers, an aggregation of college and strong amateur players in New York city.

Coffey gave great promise as a professional when he was signed with the Boston Nationals last season, and for him to jump into the shoes of such a wonder as Johnny Evers was a big contract. Coffey, however, failed to show the class that was expected of him, and was farmed to the Providence Club of the New England League, where he played last season. He is a right-handed batter and thrower.

WILL ENTER SPEED CONTESTS

EVENT FOR AMATEUR AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS PLANNED FOR THIS YEAR A. A. A. NAMES COMMITTEES.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(Special)—Millionaire motor enthusiasts will test the Indianapolis Speedway next summer, and all that remains now to be obtained is the sanction of the A. A. A., which passes on all the dates requested for automobile race meetings.

Much interest in the proposed event is being manifested here among the scores of motor car men who are attending the show. The plan, as announced here today, is to hold an international amateur motor car race to be held at the Indianapolis Speedway this summer. Many of the New York millionaire owners of private cars have already signified intentions of entering this speed event and are eager to try the new paved Hoosier course.

The A. A. A. contest board was to have met today to fix the date for this private owners' event and other race meeting dates desired by Indianapolis, but has postponed the meeting until later. Just what the date will be is uncertain, but that sanction will be granted is a foregone conclusion. English motorists, especially promoters of the Brooklands track, have proposed that another international event be held in England immediately after the one at Indianapolis. These English motorists declare they will send several private owners to race at Indianapolis if the Americans will return the favor.

Committees Are Announced.

A. A. A. committees were announced today. The announcement took in the contest and technical committee, and three Chicagoans are named on the two boards, David Beecroft, F. E. Edwards and F. C. Donald, all of the Chicago Motor Club. Mr. Beecroft is one of the active members of the contest board, while Mr. Donald is one of the associated members. On the technical committee both Mr. Beecroft and Mr. Edwards have been named.

There are only five active members of the contest board, which will handle all contests in 1910. S. M. Butler of New York is chairman, and his associates are David Beecroft of Chicago, S. B. Stevens of Rome, N. Y., T. A. Wright of Wilkes-

MILLIONAIRES TO RACE

WILL ENTER SPEED CONTESTS

EVENT FOR AMATEUR AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS PLANNED FOR THIS YEAR. A. A. A. NAMES COMMITTEES.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(Special)—Millionaire motor enthusiasts will test the Indianapolis Speedway next summer, and all that remains now to be obtained is the sanction of the A. A. A., which passes on all the dates requested for automobile race meetings.

Much interest in the proposed event is being manifested here among the scores of motor car men who are attending the show. The plan, as announced here today, is to hold an international amateur motor car race to be held at the Indianapolis Speedway this summer. Many of the New York millionaire owners of private cars have already signified intentions of entering this speed event and are eager to try the new paved Hoosier course.

The A. A. A. contest board was to have met today to fix the date for this year's owners' event and other race meeting dates desired by Indianapolis, but has postponed the meeting until Monday. That the date will be is uncertain, but that sanction will be granted is a foregone conclusion. English motorists, especially promoters of the Brooklands track, have proposed that another international event be held in England immediately after the one at Indianapolis. These English motorists declare they will send several private owners to race at Indianapolis if the Americans will return the favor.

Committees Are Announced.

A. A. A. committees were announced today. The announcement took in the contest and technical committee, and three Chicagoans are named on the two boards, David Beecroft, F. E. Edwards and F. C. Donald, all of the Chicago Motor Club. Mr. Beecroft is one of the active members of the contest board, while Mr. Donald is one of the associated members. On the technical committee both Mr. Beecroft and Mr. Edwards have been named.

There are only five active members of the contest board, which will handle all contests in 1910. S. M. Butler of New York is chairman, and his associates are David Beecroft of Chicago, S. B. Stevens of Rome, N. Y.; T. A. Wright of Wilkes-
