Contestants Seek Race Course Early to Practice for Friday and Saturday Speed Events.

An army of motorcyclists big enough to enforce martial law if necessary, is now in Indianapolis to remain until the completion of the motor speedway races Saturday afternoon. Sixty-four tired and dusty riders, survivors of the ninety-six endurance run contestants, who left Cleveland, O., Tuesday morning, arrived late yesterday afternoon. Fifty-two of these checked in on schedule time at the Denton hotel, and then took their machines to the Cadillac garage, where they were turned over to the mechanics

 Many of the riders who also entered in the speedway races tomorrow and Saturday afternoon went to the race course this morning with the intention of acquainting themselves with the conditions existing there. It was their intention to spend as much time as possible prior to the race on the course. The outer speedway track, two and a half miles long, which has the appearance of a long strip of solid rock, was alive with the thundering machines by 10 o'clock this morning. Constant track practice was the order of the riders who hope to win honors in the big speed events.
