OFFICIAL ENTRIES OUT FOR MOTORCYCLE RACES

LEADING RIDERS OF THE WORLD WILL COMPETE.

EXPECT TO SET NEW RECORDS

Official entries for the national championship motorcycle races on the new Indianapolis motor speedway, Friday and Saturday afternoon, have closed, and the list includes almost all the celebrated riders in the world. Riders who have tested the track predict that all records will be smashed before the program has been finished. The official entry list now includes more than one hundred names, and among them are the most celebrated in the motorcycle world, including professional champion Jake DeRosier and amateur champion Stanley Kellogg.

Everything is in readiness for the national motorcycle convention and races. The arrival of the army of endurance run riders from Cleveland, tomorrow afternoon, will be the first big event to attract public attention, and the monster parade through the principal streets of the city, Thursday afternoon, is expected to attract the attention of thousands of spectators. The race programs will start at 2:00 Friday and Saturday afternoon at the speedway. Big Four trains will be run to the speedway on a fifteen-minute schedule, and interurban cars will also carry big crowds. The management expects fifty thousand people to witness the speed events during the two days.
