

Podium Finishers of the Indianapolis 500

1911 - 2022

106 Indianapolis 500 Races

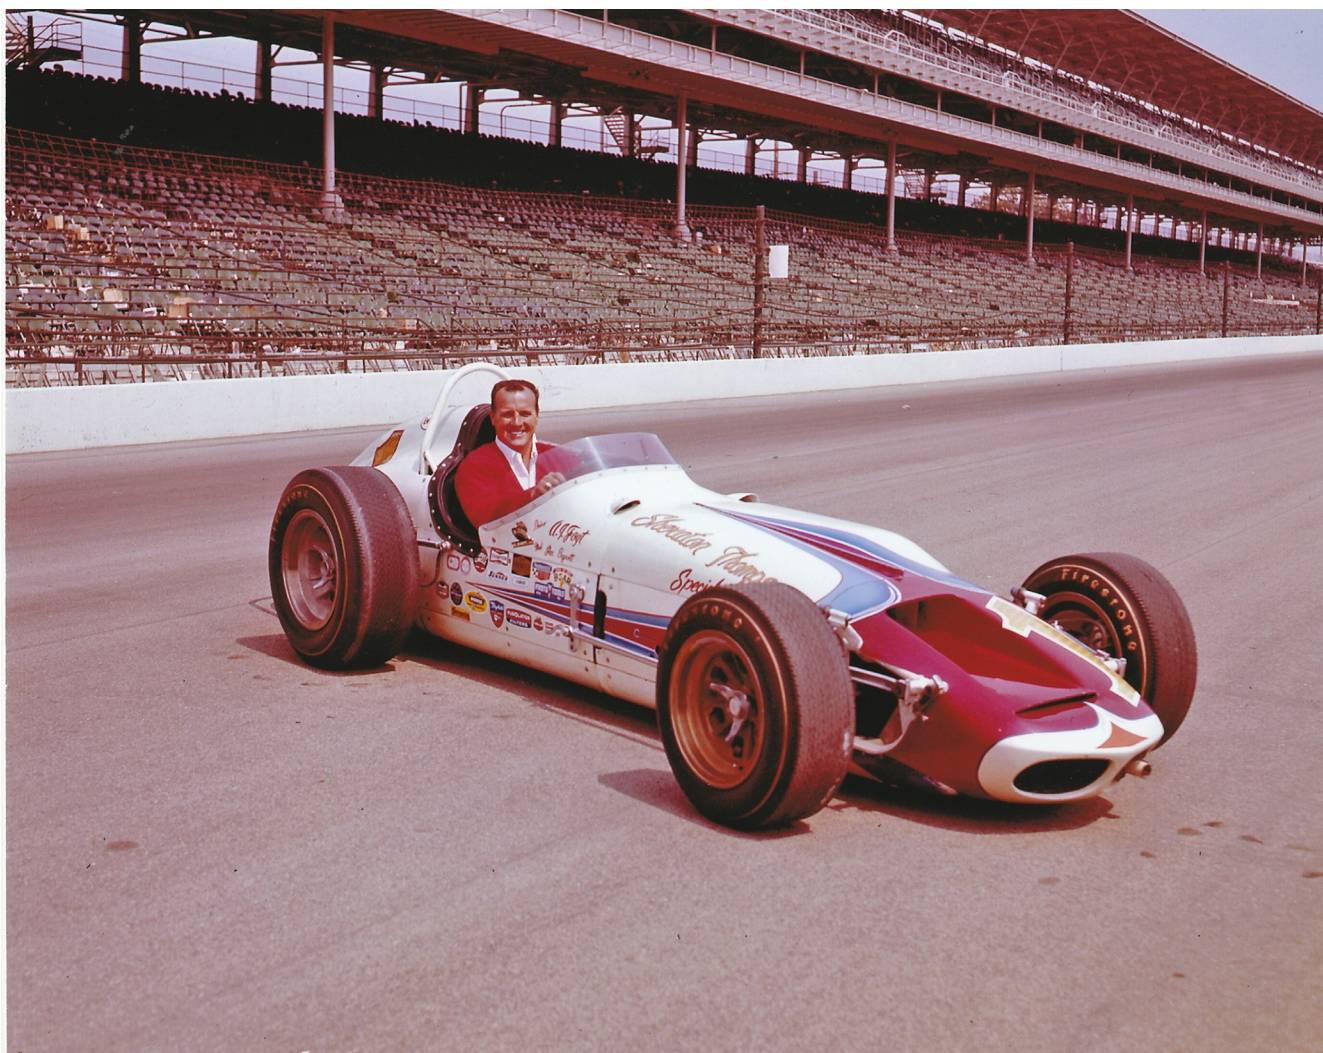

1971 Indianapolis 500 winner Al Unser would go on to finish in the top race positions 11 times. First four times, second three times and fourth four times, the most of any driver in the 106 race history of the Indianapolis 500. Photo from the Ken Parrotte collection of CR Racing Memories photos.

Podium finishing positions are a tradition which honors the top three competitors in sporting events such as the Olympic Games, Formula One racing and closer to home at Oswego and Brewerton Speedways.

A. J. Foyt after winning his second Indianapolis 500 in 1964. Foyt would be the only race driver to win the Indianapolis 500 with a roadster and a rear engine car, 1961 and 1964 with the roadster and 1967 and 1977 with a rear engine car. Photo from the Ken Parrotte collection of CR Racing Memories photos.

Since the 1911 Indianapolis 500 791 different drivers have attempted to win the Indianapolis 500. 74 drivers have won the race, 2 races with co-winners 1924 and 1941. 69 drivers have finished in the top three race positions multiple times.

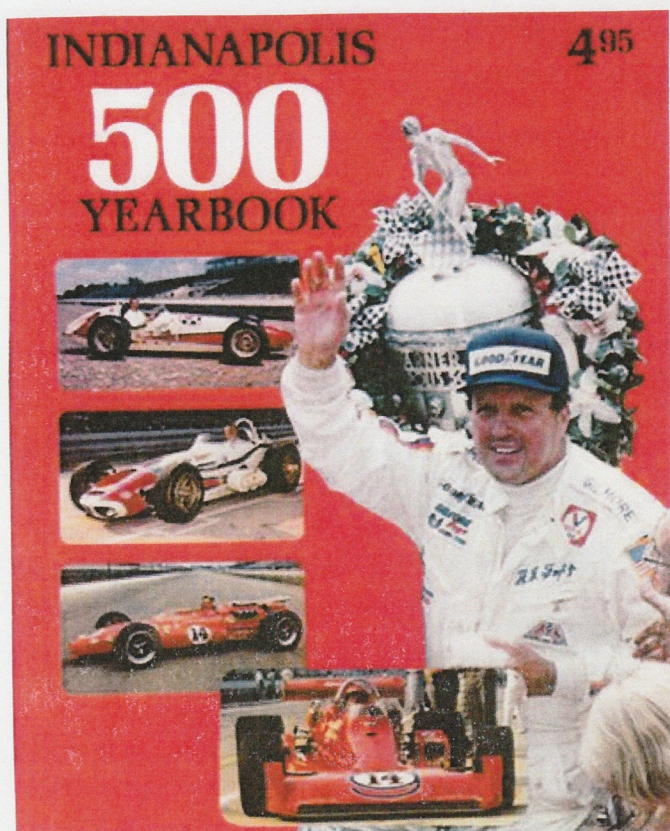

These 69 drivers have won 82 of the 106 races, finished second in 80 of the 106 races and finished third in 66 of the 106 races for a total of 228 podium finishes of the 318 positions available.

To state it another way 8% (69 drivers) of the Indianapolis 500 drivers have placed in the top three race positions 71% of the time!
