The Indiana Motorcycle Club has a big year ahead. During the next nine months its members expect to own a permanent home and the finest three-lap board track in the world. Plans were formulated after the second annual election of officers last night and work on the new project will be commenced with as little delay as possible. The club will be incorporated, stock will be floated and an effort will be made to increase the membership to five hundred. That is not expected to be a difficult task, as it is stated that there are now scores of local riders who do not belong to the organization and the indications are that there will be several hundred new riders in Indianapolis this year. A thoroughly modern home will be built, according to the plans, with offices, convention hall, gymnasium, pool and billiard rooms, bowling alleys and other features. The officers elected at the meeting last night, at the present home of the club, 44 West Vermont street, follow:

- President—Harry Graff.
- Vice-President—Johnny Merz.
- Secretary—Lee Chapman.
- Treasurer—William Powers.
- Director—John Sink.

One director is elected each year. The club has already planned for a race meet at the motor speedway next spring, and the annual Decoration day endurance run will also be held. Fred I. Willis, of this city, president of the Federation of American Motorcyclists, which held the national race meet in Indianapolis, last year, is in favor of trying to land that event again this year, but many members of the club prefer to wait until they get a board track of their own, on which new world's records would be possible.

Motorcycle tracks will be built in many cities throughout the country this year and a racing circuit probably will be formed. This sport is unusually exciting and interesting.
