JURED PILOT'S AN-NOUNCEMENT.

"I had a premonition that something would happen to me today," said Herbert Lytle, pilot of the American car which went into the ditch at the Motor Speedway yesterday afternoon. Lytle was lying on a cot at the Speedway hospital and told of his hunch.

"I was restless last night and couldn't sleep," he said. "It is seldom that I am caught that way, but last night it seemed to me that something was wrong. my mechanician before the race that I thought I would get in trouble before the end of the day. He laughed, but I felt rather sure about it, and sure enough we wont into the ditch."

Lytle has been the victim of other accidents, having met serious injury in the Vanderbilt Cup race last year. He performed a remarkable feat last year at the Speedway, when a steering knuckle broke on the Apperson Jack Rabbit he was driving, and in front of a bunch of fifteen cars at the start of the race he crossed the track twice, but managed to control the car and dodge the contenders It's all over," the pilot concluded am through with the motor racing game. Never again will I take a seat belind the wheel of a racing car in a contest game is all right for those who are lucky, but I seem to be out of luck every season.

Lytle has been one of the great drivers of the American motor racing game. He has long been rated among the most daring and skillful men of his profession. His little son was in the grand stund yesterday when the accident occurred, and wanted to go to the side of his injured father in the Speedway hospital. The pilot sent word to the boy that he was all right, and under no circumstances should the lad attempt to come across the track until the big 200-mile race was over. The race was in progress, and the boy waited until after its completion to go to the side of his father.
