Fair French Race Filots Gain Favor at Speedway

Advance photographs of Goux and Zuccared, the drivers of the Peugeot team, had engendered the belief that they were dark and swarthy. Their appearance on their arrival in the city yesterday belies such an impression. Goux particularly is the very antithesis of the southern European, being as pink cheeked and fair as a girl. Zuccarell, though of stockier build, is no less distinguished for the delicacy of his complexion.

Both look as if they had been fed on French pastry all their lives. Their eyes sparkle with animation, when they get on the subject of racing they become so excited they can barely control themselves. In education breeding they are numbered among the best of Prance, carrying all the earmarks of the distinguished foreigner, chiefly his polish and unfailing courtesy. At the speedway yesterday they had everybody breaking his neck to don't his boy in imitation of their manner. For be it known in France it is just as much the oursom for gentlemen to great each other by the ning their lids as it is for them to ealute ladies in this fashion.

of manner keen caserness to learn and unfailing good nature, the Frenchmen are already favorites among the sole defect is that they to not speak English. This, however, they waspose to sole from S. M. Pintenta, the speedway interpreter, the track.
