

Oldfield Tests His New Racer, "Old Glory."

Oldfield, in a patriotic mood, has named the car with which he hopes to lower all track records during 1909 "Old Glory," and to further define his standing as America's champion has an American flag formed and painted on the hood of his big National racer.

Oldfield tested his new machine yesterday. He did not try to fathom the limit of the car's speed, but merely made an examination of the machinery working condition. The car was built in the National's Indianapolis factory under Oldfield's personal instruction.

For many years past and up to the present the foreign drivers have been the brightest stars in such events as the Vanderbilt Cup, the Savannah road race, the Florida Beach and most of the hill-climbs.

It has been only at the track racing game that the American drivers have more than held their own, and it has remained for Oldfield to prove that he alone of the American pilots has been able to defeat them consistently.

When the twice winner of the famous Gordon Bennett Cup race came to this country with his Richard Brazier; Satori, with his F. I. A. T., which was owned by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, and Bernin, with the Renault, owned by Gould Brokow; the Mercedes, owned by Bowden and driven by Bazil, not to mention a host of lesser lights, they had things very much their own way in the East in the same manner that the foreigners have held sway on the roads here.

In October, 1904, Oldfield took his first whirl at the foreign contingent, and in the manner in which he outrode with ridiculous ease the wonderful speed creations of European factories and the drivers that attempted to dethrone him is a matter of history, and so much so that to this writing but few of the foreigners have ever again tried in track racing events.

In following the green-clad American in his smaller car, the Green Dragon, well might they think that they were behind one of the daredevils of Robin Hood's band. The undefeated returned to Europe broken hearted and never raced again on a track, while Satori, Bernie Bazil and the others, even including the great Chevrolet who won the Cobe race, have either retired from track racing or do not seem inclined to enter the game with Oldfield again.

Chevrolet is the one exception, and the indications now are that he will be seen in the track events this season using one of the Buick racers, the machine with which he won the Cobe. Oldfield states that he will carry Old Glory to the front and defend it to the death, and that ere this season is past that he will hold every track record from one to fifty miles with his new car. He holds most of them now with the Green Dragon, but he states that he will retain them and make another fresh start with his new car.

"I intend to lower all the mile-track records from one to fifty miles," said Oldfield, "over the Fair Grounds track at Indianapolis, and then I am going for all the records for the same distance on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

ting order, hoping to change the luck. It seemed to do some good.

The Saints got back their run quickly after Liese got two on a dinkey hit to left and Armbruster singled to the right boards.

Hall fanned Cross, Hopke and Graham in the second.

Hall worked his quick fire on Hopke and fanned him in the second.

Lefty Davis and Carlsch were in uniform for the first time in several days.

Carr scored in the fifth when Cockman fell trying to field Hopke's easy grounder.

With two down and three on in the third Howley hit to center and scored Davidson and Williams. Hall passed Hayden, purposely to get at Howley.

Liese scored his third two-bagger in succession on his third time up in the fifth inning.

Howley was spiked by Murray on a long slide on McChesney's throw in the fifth.

Graham was afraid of Liese in the sixth and walked him, filling the sacks again. Buster fanned with three on and dashed the Saints' hopes.
