

Britt has a burlesque show of his own which he closed up to enter the ring again.

Britt and the entire party will have box at the Hartford Opera House this afternoon to witness the moving picture show of the Britt-Nelson fight. Jimmy has a one-third interest in the fair and today will be the first time he has had the opportunity to see himself whip Nelson.

ELSIE JANIS TOMORROW NIGHT

With the coming of Elsie Janis and "The Vanderbilt Cup" to Parsons' on Friday evening, Hartford will witness the initial presentation of one of the most important ventures the managerial firm of Oldfield & Company have ever undertaken—the production of their first musical comedy, and the stellar debut of a young lady who, although but sweet sixteen, has already created a sensation in the vaudeville field which has been rarely equaled, and certainly not surpassed in recent years. There will be no performances on Saturday.

The existent automobile craze supplies the basis for the musical comedy—presenting, as it does, Dorothy Willetts' Elsie Janis' first visit to New York City, and its fascinating environs. Dorothy is an up-country lass of 16 whom a get-rich-quick Uncle, Curt Willetts (Henry V. Donnelly) has concluded to give the time of her life. Of course, a young and pretty girl, with a rich and radical uncle doesn't lack for volunteer assistants in the undertaking.

For the second act Barney Oldfield has been engaged at a cost of $1,000 per week to present in its entirety a new act which he has devised, showing his own racer, "The Green Dragon," and another celebrated racing car, manned by Tom Cooper, almost equally famous as a driver, in a close contest for the cup, both machines running at the rate of one hundred miles an hour. The exciting finish at the grandstand, with the attending action, will, it is believed, create a spectacle that will remain memorable.

In the third act the young lady is taken to witness the launching of the battleship Washington, which is also the real thing in the way of stage work, showing in the last scene the big battleship on the ways, and with Elsie Janis racking the bottle of wine across her nose, the big vessel slides off into the water, and is seen floating down the stream, the bands playing and "amid the tumultuous excitement of the multitude."

BRITT-NELSON PICTURES TODAY.

Today the original moving pictures of the Britt-Nelson fight at Colma, Cal.

KING GASOLINE REIGNS TONIGHT

Vanderbilt Cup Broadway Play, Starring Elsie Janis

Monster Illuminated Automobile Parade Will Be Held.

Route of Parade Has Been Announced—Oldfield and Albert Expect To Make Splendid Time in Race Thursday.

Barney Oldfield

Route of Parade.
The autos will start from the junction of Peachtree and West Peachtree streets, forming on Baker street at 8 o'clock sharp. The parade will start up Peachtree to Broad, from Broad to Mitchell, Mitchell to Whitehall. From Whitehall across the viaduct and out Peachtree to Sixth street and disband.

King gasoline will reign tonight, when the majority of the automobiles in Atlanta will line up for the illuminated parade, which is scheduled to start from the junction of Peachtree and West Peachtree street at 8 o'clock. The autos will be decorated and illuminated with Japanese lanterns, and a silver loving cup will be awarded to the owner of the most artistically decorated car in the line of parade.

Edward Inman, J. W. Alexander and J. B. Connally will be the marshals in charge of the different divisions of touring cars, runabouts and electric vehicles. The autoists will be requested to keep their horns and other noise-producing instruments in action continuously during the entire route of parade.

Barney Oldfield will head the parade in