RACES AT ASCOT MARCH 10

Big Event Being Planned for Los Angeles and Dario Resta May Be in Some of Events

With the announcement of the details for the running of the third annual George Washington motor sweepstakes at Ascot Speedway, March 10, it was revealed that efforts are being made to have Dario Resta, 1916 speed champion, as one of the starters. Addison Brown, a millionaire sportsman who is in Los Angeles learning aviation, has purchased one of the fastest racing cars in America and is making overtures to the great Resta in New York.

Resta now is engaged in the building of some special racing cars to meet those which will come from Europe for the rich prize when the war is over. It is known that the Fiat factory already has a racing fleet ready for an American invasion and it is expected that the Peugeot, Deage and Sunbeam will follow with the declaration of peace.

CALIFORNIA WOMEN ON JURIES STIRS ST. PAUL

(St. Paul Dispatch)

Should women have the right to serve on juries? Will their education, position in life and sympathetic natures make them capable jurors? Probably yes, remark their sisters who have fought for the rights of women.

And in support of the negative Mrs. Gilbert Gutterston, president of the Housewives' League, has advanced an entirely new argument.

"Women are not acquainted with the ways of lawyers," she says "And when some of the lun theophanders through their hair, then throw them toward the ceiling and begin that well known melodrama of tears, women will not know they are only acting, men do," she declares. "No woman on juries for me. They are too easily swayed."

All the discussion is the result of a California woman's refusal to serve on a jury, with the comment that men have larger brains than women and are better fitted temperamentally to serve.

"I agree with her entirely," said Mrs. W. J. Logue, president of the Guild of Catholic Women. "A woman's opinion is not taken seriously. It's a waste of time unless the whole jury is made up of women, and that's almost impossible."

Mrs. C. P. Noyes, president of the Y. W. C. A., is an ardent advocate of woman service on juries.

"Any woman who comes into court has the right to have some woman on the jury. This California woman has the wrong idea, and as for her statement that men have larger brains than women, I'm sure I do not know her authority," she said. Mrs. E. G. McConn, president of the Woman's Civic League said:

"Whether women will make good jurors depends on the case to be tried. If politics is mixed up, then men make the better jurors. They are keener in that regard. Whether men have larger brains than women depends on education, I believe."

Mrs. L. C. Bacon, 737 Fairmount avenue, active club worker, is of the opinion that the best jury is made up of both men and women. "I believe a mixed viewpoint gets the best results. There is no reason why women should not serve on juries. I believe, in fact, their presence is quite necessary there," she said.

"Women certainly are qualified to serve on juries," Miss Theresa Peyton, a woman lawyer, believes. "In many instances they are better fitted than men because they see matters in a different light."

BUY 4810 NEW CARS

Californians Investing in Machines Despite War Activities and Demand Is Growing

California is buying new motor cars and trucks at the rate of nearly 5000 a month. Figures taken from the state registration records last week show that Californians purchased 1810 new autos in January.

This purchase pace is being maintained this month but deliveries are slowing up owing to the transportation tie-up preventing cars from being shipped to the coast. If there was relief in the rail situation the number of new car registrations would jump up amazingly.

Not only is there heavy activity in the new buying, but used autos are moving more rapidly on the market than at any time previously. This is especially true with the dealers who rebuild most of the cars taken in on trades and then stand behind them

MISSION PLAY DRAWS

Motorists Find Trip to San Gabriel Pleasant Outing Each Sunday and Many Go There

Motoring tourists and Californians who make pleasure their business, have discovered that San Gabriel, just south of Monrovia on El Camino Real, is an ideal destination for a Sunday motor trip.

It is becoming quite a fad with people who have motor cars, to pack up their lunches in the morning, tour around, planning to reach San Gabriel about noon, eat their lunches in the ample free parking and picnicking space opposite the old San Gabriel Mission, and to enjoy the restful entertainment and delightful music of the Mission Play between 2:15 and 5 in the afternoon.

When You Go to Bed

At night, with everything all snug and comfortable about you and yours, do you take thought of what makes your peace and comfort possible?

Do you remember our faithful boys keeping watch, somewhere "over there," braving all the perils of wintry seas and submarines, or daring death and worse in the bitter cold through the treacherous night in No Man's Land?

Maybe they left just such homes and dear ones as yours—going away with superb manliness and cheerfulness—perhaps with a spiritual elevation even the memory of which makes you a better man or woman.

And when you take thought and know that the boys—each doing his duty perfectly, with such devotion—are depending on you for your part, even as you are depending on them, don't you feel like registering a vow that not one of them shall do his duty better than you will do yours?

And doesn't the very most you could possibly do at home seem a trivial sacrifice for you to make?

When you think of it that way, you could die before you would fail to keep faith with those boys—and yourself.
