AUTO DRIVERS TO MEET IN 'GRUDGE'

Both De Palma and Resta Hope to Humble Other's Pride in Liberty Sweepstakes.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 22.—Ralph DePalma and Dario Resta will run a race within a race in the 500-mile Liberty Sweepstakes on the Indianapolis motor speedway May 31.

The real battle, and it is practically a grudge fight, started in the Vanderbilt and Grand Prize road races in San Francisco at the exposition in 1915. In these two races DePalma was forced to pull into the pits and watch the English-Italian fit by in the Peugeot to victory in both events, while the Mercedes was forced to the pit wall.

In their next meeting, which occurred in the last 500-mile race, run at Indianapolis in 1915, DePalma lowered Resta's colors and swept home ahead of the field in the Mercedes, while Resta trailed him by 3-1/2 minutes in the French Peugeot. DePalma handed Resta one of the nearest hickings that the 1916 champion ever got and the only one in the history of Dario's meteoric career in America that he finished second in a big race, was in this event. Now they are going to take up the cudgels again.

Resta Has Luck

The vendetta did not end with Resta licking Ralph gave Dario at Indianapolis but continued through the 1915 season. Resta had all the luck, his Peugeot dodging accidents while DePalma's jinx followed him around the entire circuit.

Fans Gamble for Sake of Backing Their Judgment

Umpire Billy Evans of the American league gives the best explanation for the existence of gambling in the major league.

Evans declares Boston fans are very particular. He says it is the hardest city in the country for an umpire because the rank and file is well versed in the rules of the game, and in a trying situation most of the spectators are as well informed as the man who is rendering the decisions.

"I do not take the stand that those who gamble on baseball in Boston are trying to do baseball injury," said Evans.

EARL CADDOCK WINS IN ELIMINATION MATCHES

Not a single boxer in the eight-eighth division survived the elimination series held to pick the representatives of the Second army in the big tournament at Paris.

Earl Caddock, champion heavyweight of the world, won their final matches, according to the latest edition of the Overseas Camp Dodge.

It had been thought that no wrestler in the Second army would contest Caddock's right to represent it in the interallied games, but two grapplers opposed him.

The strongest of the Third-Fifth division was thrown by the champion in 2:30, and Jacobson of the Seventh division was thrown in the finals in 4:44.

Trap Gun and Rod by Tom Marshall

Oldtimers of ye olden days! Gather around, we will have an outing. A personally conducted excursion into the past, where we will reminisce together enjoying again those oldtime sports that caused red corpuscles in our veins to jump all hurdles and water ditches.

Resting down hill. You remember these hand made hickory "jumper" sleds, with bottoms of wasted end smooth as glass, to be at a later date speed with half round iron. Remember the merry shouts and laughter accorded you when wiggling and twisting, like a garter snake having a fit, in a paroxysm of wasted energy, trying to urge your sled a few inches further, to complete the record run.

Moved by the great discussion of the subject "sport for all" John E. Moakley, well known track coach at Cornell, comes to the fore with the declaration that baseball and football will not suffice to give exercise to the entire body of a college because they are not adapted to the great numbers of students.

Coach Moakley is probably one of the best informed men in the world on track athletics. For 35 years he has given his entire time to this branch of sports, and since his connection at Cornell has turned out to be the leaders of all times in the vigorous activities that are met on the field and under path.

Coach Moakley is a defender of the sprinting game and takes no stock in the buzz about concerning heart strain. "There is absolutely no danger of heart strain where track athletics are properly regulated because each participant comes under the personal observation of the director," says the Cornell mentor.

Stranger as it may seem, many of the greatest track and field athletes developed at Cornell, and Moakley, were weak and puny when they began athletics, and of these Herbert L. Truitt, two miles champion in 1908 is a striking example. Truitt took up college work against the advice of the family physician, who predicted he would break down under the strain. Moakley promises to have something of general interest to say on the athletic question next fall when the leading colleges are expected to adopt a new athletic program.

JACK DEMPSEY TO BE CARD TONIGHT

Title Contender and Athletic Show Will Hold Forth at Waterloo Theatre Tonight.

One of the biggest athletic events of the season for Waterloo will be the Jack Dempsey athletic carnival at the Waterloo theatre tonight. Jack Dempsey and his crew come from Cedar Rapids, where they showed to capacity houses.

This evening fans will have an opportunity of seeing Dempsey, challenger for Jess Willard's heavyweight title, step two three-round bouts with his sparring partners. Besides the main feature, there will be other athletic numbers on the bill. A number of Iowa athletes are being featured with the aggregation.

Contrary to the usual show of this sort, there will be no stalling, according to advance notices, Dempsey and his cohorts bringing the activities up to snuff all times. Jack will go thru "gym" stunts and training exercises and show the fans just what he will have to go thru with to get into condition to fight Willard on July 4.

The main bouts of the evening will be put on by Jack Dempsey, who will box six rounds with John Lester Johnson, colored champion, and "Big Dan" Daily of Pittsburgh.

Fight Fans Once Saw Two Titular Mingles One Day

American fistic fans tremble with ecstasy at the prospect of a championship glove contest. The "birds" never consider distance a barrier in a journey where the padded mittens will be tossed around with titular honors at stake.

The fact that many states have enacted no laws on this subject, together with lack of uniformity in the laws of other states, has deterred many persons from engaging in the business, but it has been demonstrated that many species of waterfowl, particularly black and mallard ducks, can be raised profitably on lands unsuited to agriculture and also in connection with agricultural pursuits. There seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of more uniform legislation in order that domesticated birds may reach the markets with the least inconvenience to the breeders, while at the same time the protection of wild birds may be safeguarded properly. This could be accomplished in a simple and inexpensive manner, it is believed, if a marking and tagging system similar to one in successful operation in New York state for many years were adopted. Enactment of proper laws by all states, giving full recognition to this legitimate business, department specialists believe, would encourage persons to propagate wild fowl in captivity, thus materially adding to the food supply and affording a pleasant and profitable occupation for a large number of people.

Well, that very thing was staged on this terrestrial sphere once upon a time, and it was back in the days when folks were not supposed to be so wild about features. The feature referred to was staged at Crofton Down, England, back in 1819. It comes to us straight, just as straight as the dope on the Boston tea party and Franklin's kite flying experiences and other classics of American history.

In the first title bout on that card, Jack Randall and Jack Martin swapped punches, Tom Spring and Jack Carter were the performers in the second titular mill at the show. Randall held the middleweight crown at that time. He defended his laurels against Martin, winning via the kayo route in just 45 minutes.

The second mill was for possession of Tom Crib's crown. Tom was getting old at this stage and he promised to present his headgear to the winner of the Spring-Carter battle. But were intimate friends of Crib, hence the battle. Spring won with a knockout wallop in the seventy-first stanza.

Two wrestling matches and two boxing bouts will be included in the evening's performance. Disthi, Japanese champion, will wrestle Ludecke, Panama champion, 15 minutes to a fall. Gardini, Italian champion, will wrestle George Hill, Waterloo heavyweight grappler.

Lee Anderson, the "Georgia Peach," and Young Langford of Omaha will box four rounds, and Herman Miller of Baltimore and "Sammy Bill" of Dysart will box four rounds.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—General prohibition of the sale of migratory birds has created a great demand for domesticated birds to supply the market, say specialists of the bureau of biological survey, United States department of agriculture. To meet these demands, the regulations under the migratory bird treaty act made in 1916 between the United States and Great Britain for the protection of game birds migrating between this country and Canada, make liberal provisions for the propagation of migratory waterfowl. These provisions apply to all persons who possess migratory waterfowl.

The track is being dragged every night and everything is being done to put it in first class condition for the meet.

BOXING CHAMPIONS ARE READY FOR FINAL BOUT

Paris, April 22.—Boxing championships have now reached the survival of the fittest stage, and before Gen. Pershing, Marshal Foch and a brilliant galaxy of officers from both French and American staffs, the winners of the bouts on April 26 will be declared the champions of their respective classes in the American army.

The semi-finals ended Friday night, but Col. Johnson, athletic director of the A. E. F., decided to give the boys the benefit of a full week of training before the finals. Those who will compete are: Heavyweights—Fay Kaiser, Pittsburgh, vs. Bob Martin, New York.

Light Heavyweights—Eugene Tannay, New York, vs. Ted Jamieson, Milwaukee. Heavyweights—Fay Kaiser, Pittsburgh, vs. Bob Martin, New York.

Willard Said to Be Training for Fight in Secret

New York, April 22.—Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion, is secretly training for his home in Lawrence, Kan., according to Ike Dorgan, secretary to Tex Rickard the promoter of the proposed bout between Willard and Jack Dempsey, which is scheduled for July 4. Dorgan declared that he had received information from Ray Archer, Willard's business manager, to the effect that the titleholder was working steadily after a plan which is calculated to place him in an excellent physical condition to defend his title.

Willard, evidently, is not making the mistake of underrating Dempsey. The titleholder, thru his activity in training, demonstrates that he is expecting serious opposition, and is preparing himself for a stiff bout. Archer informed Dorgan that Willard has been engaged in active training now for two months, and is increasing his exercises accordingly as the preparatory trials progress. Willard is now giving serious attention to stiff jaunts over the roads in the neighborhood of his Lawrence home. Following the road work the titleholder retires to a gymnasium which he has fitted up on his ranch, and there he punches the bag, skips the rope and performs various other gymnastic and callisthenic feats calculated to reduce his weight and improve his wind.

In addition to his training work, Willard has adopted a diet for the purpose of decreasing his weight. This indicates the seriousness with which Willard is taking the forthcoming match. The champion has enjoyed an easy life for the last three years, during which time he has not entered the ring for a serious contest. In fact his only combat since gaining the title in 1915 was the match against Frank Moran here in 1916.
