

RALSTON MAKES PLEA FOR PEACE

Governor Attends Memorial Day Services at Notre Dame. Only School in State Having Grand Army Post.

PRAISES A. B. C. MEDIATORS

Chief Executive Expresses Hope That Efforts Will Make Sacrifices of Civil War Times Never Again Necessary.

(Special to The Indianapolis Star.) SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 30.—Governor Samuel M. Ralston today attended the Memorial day services at Notre Dame University, the only educational institution in Indiana at which a G. A. R. post is located. He delivered the memorial address and reviewed the cadet battalion in the morning, and later in the day visited the graves of the soldiers and Academy, where he addressed the young women. With Mrs. Ralston he left for Indianapolis at 4 o'clock.

The ceremonies at Notre Dame were held in Washington Hall, and were preceded by the parade of cadets. Earlier in the morning Notre Dame's G. A. R. post composed of priests and brothers of the Order of the Holy Cross, decorated the graves of soldiers in the community cemetery.

The address Governor Ralston referred to the present Mexican situation and the efforts of the A. B. C. mediators to effect a peaceful settlement of the troubles of the rebellion through the mediation of the A. B. C. mediators, which would make the sacrifices of civil war times unnecessary.

The Governor referred to the patriotic spirit shown by Father Corby, chaplain of the celebrated "Irish Brigade," who sailed for France with the 100,000 men of the whole brigade in the presence of Gen. Hancock and his officers at the battle of Gettysburg, just before Hancock's forces were ordered forward to check Lee's attempt to take possession of "Round Top," and who declared that his church "rejoices in the burial of the soldier who turns his back upon the foe or deserts his flag."

The Governor praised Col. William H. French and Major O. Howard, both of whom entered as privates in the civil war and afterward became professors in the law school at Notre Dame. Referring to the interest taken in Memorial day, the Governor said:

"Notre Dame has the distinction of being the only educational institution of our state that has connected with it a post of the Grand Army of the Republic. I have the honor to have in my possession for the purposes of this occasion the petition addressed to the department of the Grand Army of the Republic, for a charter for a post at Notre Dame. In searching for a site by which to square our own lives, we should not forget that some things have been accomplished in this country that are beyond the power of man. The establishment of government—of liberty regulated by law—by our revolutionary fathers and the result of the war between the states will ever be, I verily believe, the great glory of this country. There is nothing beyond it of worldly achievement."

The following Lincoln we are not called upon to enter upon a man and a discriminate crusade against property. All well-balanced people recognize that wealth is desirable and that hatred for it breeds anarchy. No great project looking to the progress of society can be promulgated without it, and it is therefore, the duty of individuals and of nations to seek an honest accumulation of the material things of this world."

reaching its very limit in preparation for the deadly conflict. They both had their armies ready to march and their ships ready to put out to sea when the bells of their national life persuaded them to pause and to submit their differences to an impartial tribunal. Its finding was so satisfactory to both parties that war was declared off and peace restored, and the status of the "Christ of the Andes" was placed in its present position in commemoration of that peace. The statue itself was cast from the bronze of an old cannon. What had been an instrument of destruction was converted into a symbol of love and a guarantee of universal peace. On the base of this monument is inscribed these words: "Soon shall these mountains crumble into dust and the oceans break the peace to which they have pledged themselves at the feet of Christ the Redeemer." "It is in the language of A. B. C. mediators, may God hasten the day when their numbers will be multiplied and the brotherhood of man everywhere recognized."

Henry Ford Honor Guest at Dinner of Officials

Henry Ford of Detroit, president of the Ford Motor Company, was the guest of honor at a dinner party at the Claypool Hotel last evening. With Mr. Ford was a party of thirty-five officials from Detroit and branch managers from various parts of this country and Europe. Nearly seventy-five were at the banquet. No speeches were made as it was necessary for the Ford of Detroit, Henry Ford's son, James Cousins of Detroit, vice president and treasurer of the company; F. L. Kinsman, secretary of the company; A. Hawkins, sales manager; W. A. Ryan, assistant sales manager; L. H. Turrell, auditor; F. H. Diehl, purchasing agent; C. E. Sorenson and F. E. Martin, superintendents, all of Detroit; H. B. McMaster, and a special memorial will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the Supreme Court room in the State House for the late John L. Griffiths, consul general to England.

Receives for Guests Today

Miss Conway Lilly will receive informally at 4 o'clock this afternoon until 7 o'clock this evening in honor of several guests who are here for her wedding. The guests are: Miss Hazel Benson of Robinson, Ill.; Miss Dorrit Stevens of Chicago, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. W. Bradford Atwater of Algiers.

Bettors, Picking Favorites, Fail to Consider Thomas

Thomas wasn't even given the "dark horse" chance by the bettors. Goux was the favorite over the field, with Guyot running a close second. As far as the gamblers' were concerned, the winning Delage pilot was not considered. That more than $100,000 changed hands on the race. One authority declared that twice the amount wagered on the 1913 classic figured on the outcome of yesterday's sweepstakes.

tempting to avoid the Isotta, driven by Gilhooly, which had bumped the concrete wall and was turning over and over immediately in front of him, when one of the wheels of his car slipped off the track, causing his machine to be overturned.

Dawson's left collarbone was broken and his back was so badly wrenched that it was feared at first that it had been broken. It developed later that he had been hurt internally, producing a hemorrhage of the kidneys. Nurses and physicians were in almost constant attendance on him while he lay in the Speedway Emergency Hospital, and late in the afternoon he was removed to the Methodist Hospital. His condition for a time was extremely serious, but as he recovered from the shock he gained in strength.

Vere Barnes Fortunates

Vere Barnes, 832 North Illinois street, mechanic for Dawson, escaped with lacerations about the face and head, and he was able to walk within a few hours. He was taken from the emergency hospital in the afternoon to his home.

Zonani Shows Pluck

Ray Gilhooly, the driver, luckily was thrown clear, while his mechanic, Nine Genani, was pinned beneath the car. Gilhooly thought that his teammate was dead, but was agreeably surprised a few minutes after the accident occurred to see Zonani's head emerge from underneath the wreckage. Zonani grinned and said: "Well, I guess it's about time for me to climb out."

Chassagne Luckily Escapes

Jean Chassagne, driver of the Sunbeam, escaped with cuts on the face when his car blew a tire and was overturned, but his mechanic, Albert Percy Mitchell, was not so fortunate. The ligaments of Mitchell's neck were torn and the entire left side of his body and face was burned from coming in contact with the Sunbeam's exhaust when he was pinned under the car. Mitchell's home is in Wolverhampton, Eng.
