

requently interrupted the occasionally fought with a noble but drunken earl, the wings during a performance, "crossed the stage friend. Rich, the manager,

A. K. RIKER
Patented Automobile Designer

with the nobleman for his coronum, and he promptly manager's face. Thereupon of the other actors drew and drove the earl and his the stage. But the gentleman to be defeated, rushed into and, cutting and slashing them, proceeded to destroy the they were only stopped from

OVER READY" F. J. ALVIN
m. Electric and Novelty Co.
er damage by the resolute Quin, who, calling the watch stance, arrested the rioters them before the magistrates.
strous instance of these curious interruptions was that of a gentleman who was so stirred by the beauty of Mrs. Woffington's performance of Cordelia in "King Lear" that he could not refrain from coming on to the stage and embracing her in the sight of the audience.

and donned a kind of uniform and stationed themselves like scarecrows along the taxable highways. They figure it out that as the old mortgage continues to grow and warp the shingles on the old roof, the fellow who can ride in an auto should be whistle, all of which from the hands of a trained engineer have a message and a meaning to the ear that hears and the head that understands. Some people are more susceptible to sound than others. It was observed in Cuba last spring that the local constabulary had little or no

W. HILLIARD
Will Drive Napier in Vanderbilt Race

Jersey Justice

New Jersey is an unhappy state to run an automobile in, and Union county is the particular place to stay away from. It is wiser to go by a more circuitous route. Many of the schemes of the village constables show an ingenuity worthy of a better cause. The Elizabeth Journal publishes a story of the special deputies stretch-

BARNEY OLDFIELD
The Champion Racer

"easy graft." The local justice who had not had a case for years past is getting busy. Snivelling through the pressed nose, spectacle-bestrid, he condemns the quaking culprit who is fortunate if he is not both fined and confined before he escapes from the cormorants, who are chuckling over their ill-gotten gains like veritable knights of the road.

MANAGER ARMSTRONG
Bliss Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

control of the swaying, surging crowds, but the horn of the coming car spread consternation among the motley multitude. The chauffeur did what the police failed to do. Like Roderick Dhu:

"One blast upon his bugle horn
Was worth a thousand men!"

C. P. HUNTINGTON
Electric Vehicle Co.

TOM COOPER
Matheson Motor Car Co., New York

ing a rope across a road to intercept a bride and groom who had gone beyond the limit in a new auto. Watches as big as turnips and as old as the hills are used in timing unsuspecting drivers. Some bearded country yokels have actually dropped the plow and forsaken the cabbage patch

The most accomplished chauffeurs are not so liberal in the use of the horn as formerly, and the result is that it is getting to be more regarded. As time passes it may so happen that the public car will become tuned to the use of the horn, just as railway men get accustomed to the blasts of the locomotive

RAYMOND HEALY
Healy Leather Tire Co.

The Truffault-Hartford Company, 67 Vestry street, New York, are giving away to their friends a pocket case with transparent face, suitable for holding license cards. We acknowledge with thanks receipt of one and advise other automobilists to hurry in their application before the supply is exhausted.

ous interruptions was that of a gentleman who was so stirred by the beauty of Mrs. Woffington's performance of Cordelia in "King Lear" that he could not refrain from coming on to the stage and embracing her in the sight of the audience.

and donned a kind of uniform and stationed themselves like scarecrows along the taxable highways. They figure it out that as the old mortgage continues to grow and warp the shingles on the old roof, the fellow who can ride in an auto should be whistle, all of which from the hand of a trained engineer have a message of meaning to the ear that hears and the head that understands. Some people are more susceptible to sound than others. It was observed in Cuba last spring that the local constabulary had little or

W. HILLIARD
Will Drive Napier in Vanderbilt Race

BARNEY OLDFIELD
The Champion Racer

MANAGER ARMSTRONG
Bliss Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jersey Justice

New Jersey is an unhappy state to run an automobile in, and Union county is the particular place to stay away from. It is wiser to go by a more circuitous route. Many of the schemes of the village constables show an ingenuity worthy of a better cause. The Elizabeth Journal publishes a story of the special deputies stretch-

"easy graft." The local justice who had not had a case for years past is getting busy. Snivelling through the pressed nose, spectacle-bestrid, he condemns the quaking culprit who is fortunate if he is not both fined and confined before he escapes from the cormorants, who are chuckling over their ill-gotten gains like veritable knights of the road.

control of the swaying, surging crowd but the horn of the coming car sparks consternation among the motley multitude. The chauffeur did what the police failed to do. Like Roderick Dhu:

"One blast upon his bugle horn
Was worth a thousand men!"

C. P. HUNTINGTON
Electric Vehicle Co.

TOM COOPER
Matheson Motor Car Co., New York

RAYMOND HEALY
Healy Leather Tire Co.

ing a rope across a road to intercept a bride and groom who had gone beyond the limit in a new auto. Watches as big as turnips and as old as the hills are used in timing unsuspecting drivers. Some bearded country yokels have actually dropped the plow and forsaken the cabbage patch

The most accomplished chauffeurs are not so liberal in the use of the horn as formerly, and the result is that it is getting to be more regarded. As time passes it may so happen that the public ear will become tuned to the use of the horn, just as railway men get accustomed to the blasts of the locomotive

The Truffault-Hartford Company, Vestry street, New York, are going away to their friends a pocket case of transparent face, suitable for holding license cards. We acknowledge thanks receipt of one and advise automobilists to hurry in their application before the supply is exhausted.

ous interruptions was that of a gentleman who was so stirred by the beauty of Mrs. Woffington's performance of Cordelia in "King Lear" that he could not refrain from coming on to the stage and embracing her in the sight of the audience.

and donned a kind of uniform and stationed themselves like scarecrows along the taxable highways. They figure it out that as the old mortgage continues to grow and warp the shingles on the old roof, the fellow who can ride in an auto should be whistle, all of which from the hand of a trained engineer have a message a meaning to the ear that hears and head that understands. Some people more susceptible to sound than others. It was observed in Cuba last spring that the local constabulary had little or

W. HILLIARD
Will Drive Napier in Vanderbilt Race

BARNEY OLDFIELD
The Champion Racer

MANAGER ARMSTRONG
Bliss Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jersey Justice

New Jersey is an unhappy state to run an automobile in, and Union county is the particular place to stay away from. It is wiser to go by a more circuitous route. Many of the schemes of the village constables show an ingenuity worthy of a better cause. The Elizabeth Journal publishes a story of the special deputies stretch-

"easy graft." The local justice who had not had a case for years past is getting busy. Snivelling through the pressed nose, spectacle-bestrid, he condemns the quaking culprit who is fortunate if he is not both fined and confined before he escapes from the cormorants, who are chuckling over their ill-gotten gains like veritable knights of the road.

control of the swaying, surging crowd but the horn of the coming car sparks consternation among the motley multitude. The chauffeur did what the police failed to do. Like Roderick Dhu:

"One blast upon his bugle horn
Was worth a thousand men!"

C. P. HUNTINGTON
Electric Vehicle Co.

TOM COOPER
Matheson Motor Car Co., New York

RAYMOND HEALY
Healy Leather Tire Co.

ing a rope across a road to intercept a bride and groom who had gone beyond the limit in a new auto. Watches as big as turnips and as old as the hills are used in timing unsuspecting drivers. Some bearded country yokels have actually dropped the plow and forsaken the cabbage patch

The most accomplished chauffeurs are not so liberal in the use of the horn as formerly, and the result is that it is getting to be more regarded. As time passes it may so happen that the public ear will become tuned to the use of the horn, just as railway men get accustomed to the blasts of the locomotive

The Truffault-Hartford Company, Vestry street, New York, are getting away to their friends a pocket case of transparent face, suitable for holding license cards. We acknowledge thanks receipt of one and advise automobilists to hurry in their application before the supply is exhausted.

ous interruptions was that of a gentleman who was so stirred by the beauty of Mrs. Woffington's performance of Cordelia in "King Lear" that he could not refrain from coming on to the stage and embracing her in the sight of the audience.

and donned a kind of uniform and stationed themselves like scarecrows along the taxable highways. They figure it out that as the old mortgage continues to grow and warp the shingles on the old roof, the fellow who can ride in an auto should be whistle, all of which from the hands of a trained engineer have a message and a meaning to the ear that hears and the head that understands. Some people are more susceptible to sound than others. It was observed in Cuba last spring that the local constabulary had little or no

W. HILLIARD
Will Drive Napier in Vanderbilt Race

BARNEY OLDFIELD
The Champion Racer

MANAGER ARMSTRONG
Bliss Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jersey Justice

New Jersey is an unhappy state to run an automobile in, and Union county is the particular place to stay away from. It is wiser to go by a more circuitous route. Many of the schemes of the village constables show an ingenuity worthy of a better cause. The Elizabeth Journal publishes a story of the special deputies stretch-

"easy graft." The local justice who had not had a case for years past is getting busy. Snivelling through the pressed nose, spectacle-bestrid, he condemns the quaking culprit who is fortunate if he is not both fined and confined before he escapes from the cormorants, who are chuckling over their ill-gotten gains like veritable knights of the road.

control of the swaying, surging crowds, but the horn of the coming car spread consternation among the motley multitude. The chauffeur did what the police failed to do. Like Roderick Dhu:

"One blast upon his bugle horn
Was worth a thousand men!"

C. P. HUNTINGTON
Electric Vehicle Co.

TOM COOPER
Matheson Motor Car Co., New York

RAYMOND HEALY
Healy Leather Tire Co.

ing a rope across a road to intercept a bride and groom who had gone beyond the limit in a new auto. Watches as big as turnips and as old as the hills are used in timing unsuspecting drivers. Some bearded country yokels have actually dropped the plow and forsaken the cabbage patch

The most accomplished chauffeurs are not so liberal in the use of the horn as formerly, and the result is that it is getting to be more regarded. As time passes it may so happen that the public ear will become tuned to the use of the horn, just as railway men get accustomed to the blasts of the locomotive

The Truffault-Hartford Company, 67 Vestry street, New York, are giving away to their friends a pocket case with transparent face, suitable for holding license cards. We acknowledge with thanks receipt of one and advise other automobilists to hurry in their application before the supply is exhausted.