Seventeen-Year-Old Marve Coming

RAY SEYMOUR.

Among the army of celebrated motorcycle race riders now headed for Indianapolis to participate in the motor speedway races next week is Raymond Seymour, the boy wonder of Los Angeles.
He is now enroute to this city. The Los Angeles Herald, of July 5, has the following to say of Seymour:

Ray Seymour, the seventeen-year-old boy of Los Angeles, yesterday afternoon at the Fleeta stadium proved to possess the material of which daredevils are made, and is one of those finds in the younger generation of riders among whom future world's championships may be looked for. Although he did not threaten any standing records, he demonstrated that he has that species of pluck and nerve necessary to a successful motorcycle rider, and his performance yesterday substantiates what has been said in these columns before—that, as the motorcycle game grows a little older there will be many young men and even raw boys who will learn to develop that mania for the spotlight to the extent of exclaiming the performances, once considered remarkable, of those occupying the center of the stage. The best performance of the day for Seymour was a mile in 58 flat, which, considering the boy's immature years, is nothing short of spectacular. This time was made in an exhibition mile, during every inch of which he kept the hair of the spectators on straight edge, at one point in particular giving so daring a ride, when the hind wheel of his machine skidded badly, that he caused the crowd to rise to its feet and cheer him lustily.

Later in the day, in another trial against the watch, young Seymour practically repeated this performance by riding two miles in 1:56 1-5, just one-tenth of a second per mile slower than that of the one-mile exhibition.
