ARTHUR C. NEWBY, PIONEER BICYCLE, AUTO MAKER, DIES

One of Speedway Organizers Contributed Quietly to Various Institutions, Including Butler
and Earlham.

Arthur C. Newby, 68 years old, a pioneer in the bicycle and automobile world and later known as a quiet philanthropist, died at 7 o'clock last night at his home, 4020 North Meridian street.

He began the manufacture of bicycle chains in Indianapolis when nearly the entire world looked to Europe for chains. Previously he had an interest in a bicycle factory. He later helped found the National Motor Vehicle Company and still later the Empire Automobile Company.

He also was associated with other automobile pioneers in fighting the famous Selden patent infringement suits.

Made Numerous Gifts.

In his later life he had made numerous gifts to various institutions, mainly without knowledge of any person save the recipient. One of his best known philanthropies was purchase of a tract of wooded land

OUSTED OFFICERS BITTERLY ATTACK NEW CUBAN RULE

Refuse to Support Grau San Martin—President Aims
at End of U. S.
Influence.

HAVANA, Sept. 11.—(U.P.)—The new government headed by Provisional President Ramon Grau San Martin faced its first serious crisis tonight with an outburst of open defiance from the ousted officers of the regular army.

The officers, in continuous session
at the National hotel, issued a statement denouncing the new citizens' administration as "dragging the mass of our citizenry toward desperation and ruin."

The situation at the National hotel grew worse when the employees went on strike at orders from the union.
Elevators were run by department heads. An announcement from the management said only the regular guests at the hotel, including United States Ambassador Sumner Welles,
could be fed during the emergency.
The hotel is overrun with ejected
army officers and their supporters and families, acres sleeping in hall-ways.

Bitterly Denounce Leaders.

The officers, refusing to support the government of Dr. Grau San Martin, issued a statement bitterly denouncing the leaders in the revolt
of the enlisted men that threw them out of power.

It said in part:

"The soldiers are now being demoralized with hatred spread among brothers. A desire to kill has been inculcated in the people. A monster disguised as communism has been created to fool true Communists and dreamers. A government has been formed which is dragging the mass of our citizenry toward desperation and ruin."

"Free From Influences."

Dr. Grau San Martin boldly embarked today on a popular campaign

Suit Filed to Lift Ban on Athletes for Post-Season

Power of State High School Assoc
—Immediate Reinstatement of I

The first protest against wholesale disba-high school athletes for alleged infraction of basketball rule governing playing out of season with the filing of a suit asking a temporary permanent injunction against the Indiana Hi society.

The suit, filed in Superior court, Room 2, by the firm of Johnson & Zechiel and Walter Pritchard, attorneys, questions the power of the
I. H. S. A. A. to set up and enforce "arbitrary" rules and asked immediate reinstatement of James Birr, Henry Nolting Jr. and Millard Gannon, stars of the Shortridge high school football team.

Temporary Restraining Asked.

In order that Birr, Nolting and Gannon may return to the school's football squad and practice without "jeopardizing" the standing of Short-ridge in the I. H. S. A. A., the suit asked that a temporary restraining order against Arthur L. Trester, commissioner of the I. H. S. A. A., and members of the board of control
of the association, be granted immediately to prevent them from enforcing the disbarments.

Arthur C. Newby Dies at His Home

CONCLUDED FROM PAGE ONE.

Bertha Edwards. He was the last of a long line of Newbys.

Born Near Monrovia.

He was born on a farm near Monrovia, Dec. 29, 1865, and went with his parents to Lawrence, Kas., while a youth. The family later went to California, and he came back to Indiana when he was 14 years old. For two years he lived on a farm near Mooresville.

He came to Indianapolis about 1881 and soon was employed in the old Dickson's Trade Palace and later in the Vance Hunter dry goods store. He then obtained employment at Nordyke & Marmon as a time clerk and bookkeeper and later became office manager.

In the early nineties he helped found and became secretary of the Zig-Zag Cycling Club, to which many persons now prominent in business and professional life belonged. From 1894 to 1899 he was associated with the Hay & Willits Manufacturing Company, in the manufacture of the old Cuting bicycles.

Helped Form Chain Company.

At a time when nearly all bicycle chains were manufactured in Europe, he joined with Charles E. Test and Edward Fletcher to form the Indianapolis Chain and Stamping Company, making Diamond bicycle chains. The firm soon began to supply 60 per cent of American-made chains. In 1899 the factory was sold to the American Bicycle Company. Later it was purchased by L. M. Wainwright and associates and became the Diamond Chain and Manufacturing Company.

He built the Newby oval, a quarter-mile bicycle track at what is now Central avenue above Thirtieth street, and it became one of the fastest tracks in the country. Eddie Bald, Tom Copper, Barney Oldfield, "Plugger" Bill Martin and other crack riders of the period competed there in races sponsored by the League of American Wheelmen.

Enters Automobile Field.

In 1900, with C. E. Test and others, he founded the National Motor Vehicle Company and began manufacture of National electric automobiles. In 1903 he entered the gasoline motor field with the National

Enters Automobile Field.

In 1900, with C. E. Test and others, he founded the National Motor Vehicle Company and began manufacture of National electric automobiles. In 1903 he entered the gasoline motor field with the National automobile, which soon became known in racing circles the world over. A National, driven by Joe Dawson, won the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in 1912.

In 1916 the factory was sold to a New York group and the name was changed to the National Motor Car and Vehicle Corporation. He retired from business for a time after the sale to regain his health. He later joined with R. H. Haasler and others to found the Empire Automobile Company here.

He spent much time in Florida the last several years and took great interest in boating. He was a member of the Cocoloba Kay Club, the members of which entertained Warren G. Harding and most of his prospective Cabinet members just before Mr. Harding's inauguration as President.

Organizer of Speedway.

With Carl G. Fisher, Frank E. Sweet, James A. Allison and Frank H. Wheeler, he helped organize the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in 1909. Mr. Newby was elected first vice president two days after incorporation and held the post until the sale of the track to Col. E. V. Rickenbacker and associates in 1927. Mr. Newby also was associated for a time with Mr. Fisher and Mr. Allison in Florida projects.

Funeral services will be at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Atherton Pays Tribute.

J. W. Atherton, financial secretary of Butler university, last night paid the following tribute:

"Mr. Newby was a firm believer in education and made substantial contributions to Butler university and Earlham college.

"For many years he was interested in the development of Butler university, serving on the endowment and building commissions as well as on the Butler foundation board. In his passing, the university loses a generous and loyal supporter

MARGARET (PEGGY) MCCARTHY.

State Detectives Join In Search for Peggy McCarthy's Slayers.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 11.—(AP)

—State detectives joined with local authorities today in attempting to run down the first tangible clue in the slaying of Margaret (Peggy) McCarthy, 10 years old, who was found strangled to death Saturday.

The girl disappeared Friday noon after leaving her Somerville home on an errand and her body was found in a clump of bushes near the Harvard divinity school in Cambridge the following day.

Paul T. Murphy, 17-year-old Cambridge high school student, gave police their first footing in the case last night when he told of seeing a car slow down early Saturday morning near the spot where the child's body was found.

Sees License Plates.

Murphy, who sleeps on a porch, said he was lying awake as the car passed his home at 2:15 o'clock and that he remembered the first three numbers on the registration plates. State detectives are seeking to trace the machine.

Meanwhile, search went on for a middle-aged man who was reported to have accosted girl friends of the slain child previous to her death and who was seen talking to the child a short time before she disappeared.

GIRL'S BODY IDENTIFIED.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The body of a girl found in a gully near Pomona Saturday was identified tentatively today by Mrs. R. E. Smith of Los Angeles as that of her daughter, Winifred Shirleigh Smith, 14 years old, who disappeared from her home last July 13.

A shoe the girl wore and a scarf found near the body "almost convinced Mrs. Smith, she said, that the victim was her daughter.
